

⑩ ON SUFFOCATION

An unsettling but important film about when a system becomes more important than a person's life. Seven minutes without dialogue. The most unsettling aspect of the film is that it could be absolutely true.

2013, by Jenifer Malmqvist,
7 min., fiction.

⑩ PEACE TALK

Little Jonna and her friend Emilie play at being soldiers, but Jonna's mother doesn't approve of the course their game takes. The film portrays a young girl's ability to communicate through the use of body language and signals rather than words, against the mother's need for wording and explanation. Toned down, yet believable, it is a short film about the world of children that adults don't always respect.

2004, by Jenifer Malmqvist,
14 min., fiction.
